CHRISTIAN INTERNATIONAL PEACE SERVICE

Job Opportunity

Partner in Service, CHIPS Ghana

CHIPS (Christian International Peace Service) is an established UK Charity with over 40 years experience in working for peace and reconciliation in the UK and overseas. Our vision is to contribute to peacemaking and reconciliation in areas of conflict and tension using a practical, sustainable, biblically-based, grassroots approach.

CHIPS is seeking an individual or couple passionate about peacemaking and rooted in a strong Christian faith to partner the Ghanaian team living simply in an area of tension in Northern Ghana. Following training, the applicant will live alongside the team and local communities supporting them in ongoing practical activities. The Partner in Service will support the team relationally and spiritually, and in communications with the UK. The successful candidate will participate in implementation and evaluation of all project activities, assist in planning and design of new programmes, and will have many opportunities to utilise any relevant experience or expertise.

The successful candidate will be degree educated, or have significant relevant life/work experience in a relevant area. Experience living & working abroad and in community, formal education in peace and development, relevant practical skills, and knowledge of participatory development approaches will all be advantageous but not essential. Key attributes will be humility, a desire to serve out of love and a willingness to learn and grow.
